Atlas Mill was built in 1878, one of Kimberly-Clark's first papermaking facilities. Within its thick stone-and-brick walls, bold ideas in papermaking were nurtured. Beneath its massive timbers, innovations that became industry standards were born. In a world that relied largely on paper made of jute, the Atlas Mill proved that paper could be made efficiently from ground wood pulp.

Now home to Atlas Coffee Mill and Café; Paper Creations' retail paper arts center; Trinova - a specialty packaging design firm; SEH, an architectural firm; and the Paper Industry International Hall of Fame, the mill is once again teeming with excitement!

Atlas Coffee Mill and Café offers unsurpassed river views; outdoor decks for dining or relaxing; intimate indoor dining; a signature menu and complement of truly fresh-roasted coffees and fine wines. Two studios overlooking the river accommodate business meetings, book clubs, dinner parties, and other gatherings for up to 45. Public computers and wireless internet available at no charge.
